

Cyborg - Or As She Likes It "Cai-borg"

October 28th 2100: It's a lovely perpetual autumn morning somewhere in this new world. Borders have blurred, gender happens to be a thing of the past, CO2 is being converted into C2H6O (ethanol) and every one has been hallucinating enough from the effects of ethanol to make Kim Kardashian West the new religion. While all this is taking place in a post 5.1 industrial revolution, our main resources being energy produced through a new method of "hyperactivenduranceefficiency", Dexter the journafictionist decides to pay Caitlyn Jenner (our world's first cyborg) a visit on her 151st Birthday.

Location: Inside Caitlyn Jenner's dream home

The interview takes place in front of her museum like 'glam room' that was packed full of women's clothing featured in the reality show of 2015, Keeping Up With The Kardashians. Flickering lights from the nearest hologram projection - showing her transformation - fills up the otherwise soft-lit room. The room is mostly empty - apart from a pair of Greta Grossman lounge chairs facing the 'glam room', and cryonics of a humongous Villose Pitcher-Plant placed between the chairs.

Throughout all recordings we have the background of the 'lounge area', there is no extra sound apart from occasional head scratching.

The Interview

Caitlyn - We all know her!

Dexter - Young male, slightly nervous but still professional. Knows Jenner from a seminar he had attended exactly a year ago - "Unique Lives". After writing a piece on Jenner, he was invited to meet her in this exact same room where he was congratulated for his merit and kindness.

Process - Jenner has no time to lose in a world where Time is currency. She walks in, greets the young man and sits down on one of the Greta Grossman lounge chairs. The interview begins.

Dexter

(Cracks his right hand index finger joint to start his newly installed voice recording device)

Sound of high heels as Caitlyn walks through the door.

Caitlyn

(Addressing Dexter)

Hi!

(Cheek kissing Dexter from a distance)

Thank Kim! I finally get to see you again.

(Takes her seat)

Dexter

Yes. Thank Kim!
Shall we start?

Caitlyn

Yes.
Shoot.

(Crosses her legs)

Dexter

Through you we have learnt a lot about advancements in Body Replacements. How did it all start?

Caitlyn

People go through life and they never deal with their own issues. No matter what the issues are. Mine happened to be gender identity. But how many people just go through life and waste their entire life 'cause they never deal with themselves and be who they are...

And then... And then you start learning the kind of pressure women are under all the time... about their appearance! I had to figure out ways for eternal youth, cause makeup can only help that much.

Dexter

How did you start your transformation?

Caitlyn

Yeah... ah ... as a former athlete I noticed that my knees went bad soon after my first transformation. So I contracted the ETH Caibathlon. And you know... who says you have to live with what is given to you?

(Laughs)

Dexter

Caibathlon?!
Rumours were right then? You've started to pronounce cyborg differently?

Caitlyn

Of course I do! I'm the first... and the oldest one functioning... ain't I? They should rebrand the term as "Cai-borg".
If it weren't for me, you'd still be scribbling this interview with some outdated pen and non-environment friendly paper!
That generation... of your great-grandparents... they got us into this perpetual autumn!
By Kim! How I hated those paper-wasting tree-killing monsters! Such a pity that we lost the forest.

Dexter

Yes.

(Nods)

I'd have loved to see those forests.
 You do have a lovely Villose
 Pitcher-Plant in cryonics... never saw those before but in pictures!
 Thank Kim, we found a way around the CO2 issue. You and Ethanol...

Caitlyn

(Laughs)

Yes yes... powered my pacemaker didn't it?

Dexter

You made Time a new currency... and your obsession with finding a
 "fountain of youth" brought us here...

Caitlyn

Of course Dexter. Thank you for your kindness...

Dexter

Do you miss any of your original body parts?

Caitlin

Back in the days I'd have said my breasts, but now that everyone has them... by the way yours look good
 Dexter...

(Dexter giggles and nods)

I'd say nothing! Everything is like... look at me!! Don't I look good!?!)

Dexter

Last question. How are you powering up your entire Dream House?

Caitlyn

One word. Clones.

(Self satisfactory laugh)

I have my personal bank of organ
 donor... no secrets there...
 Now they have to keep fit - right?

So they "soul cycle"... a trend I noticed in 2015 at a place called Cycle House!

Only difference? They cycle till their soul yells... they cycle till they drop. They cycle... to produce energy.

Ain't that brilliant? My clones! They cycle... to produce energy.

And with that harvested energy I make this house run.